Programmes can be delivered by our expert tutors, who can bring depth as well as breadth to courses by illustrating the relevance of the content to the environment in which your organisation operates.

What qualifications are available?

CIPS offers a range of academic qualifications with a route to becoming MCIPS. Our qualifications range from the Certificate through to the Professional Diploma (equivalent to the final year of a degree).

How are programmes structured?
All CIPS qualifications programmes benefit from a dedicated programme manager to support every aspect of delivery. Programmes are then tailored to maximise learning, optimise pass rates and drive value from available budget.

Maximising learning
We design programmes with a customised balance of face-to-face and virtual study support to suit the needs of your business and your staff. This blended approach can include e-learning, phone tutoring, workshops, webinars and course books, all helping to stimulate learning and minimise time away from the business.

Supporting students
Our professional programme managers enable students to focus more time on their studies by simplifying each step of the learning journey, managing the ordering of books, applying for membership and registering for exams on their behalf.

Optimising spend
This flexible, personalised approach enables you to gain staff with independently accredited, globally recognised qualifications whilst optimising the value of your training spend.
